Marina, Seaside Get More Pre-School, Day Care

Plans to offer pre-school and day care services for 50 Marina youngsters and to provide day care for older welfare children in Seaside have been announced by the Monterey Peninsula Unified School District.

At their September 17 meeting, district trustees approved the lease of a three-bedroom home at 484 Reindollar Avenue to be used for the Marina program, and renewed a contract with Monterey County welfare authorities to provide the Seaside services.

In addition, the board acted to lease two 16-passenger buses to transport children involved in Children's Center, pre-school and day care programs operated by the district.

The Marina home will be used to house a total of 30 children in pre-school programs operated with funding from Assembly Bill 1331, according to Mrs. Charlie Knight, director of special projects. She explained that about half will attend a three-hour morning session and the remainder will go for three hours in the afternoon. About 20 children will be using the house under a day care program, she said.

She told the board plans are under way to obtain permission from the county to use the house for educational purposes and said if all goes as planned the new facility will begin operations on October 15.

The Seaside program is aimed at providing extended day care services for children in the 7 to 14 age group whose parents are on welfare and working or involved in a training program. A similar effort was tried last year but was not successful, Mrs. Knight said, largely due to difficulties in recruiting children between 7 and 14 willing to take part in the program. This year she said the district will work with school principals and recreation officials to try and combine programs and activities to attract youngsters to the services. The program will be designed to serve up to 50 students.

Supt. James Harrison told the board the district will be serving a total of over 300 children in various Children's Center, pre-school and day care services this year.

School Enrollment Gap Closing

Enrollment in the Monterey Peninsula Unified School District has nearly reached expected levels, Supt. James Harrison has reported to the board.

Turstees were informed that enrollment had grown by September 17 to 17,223, or 126 students short of expectations. This meant, however, that over 1,100 students have enrolled since schools opened on September 4. Harrison prdicted that more students will enroll during the next two weeks, bringing the district closer to projections.

Latest figures show there are 9,669 students in elementary school, 3,996 in junior high and 3,558 in high school in the Monterey Peninsula Unified School District.

At their meeting, trustees viewed new documents designed to help instructors teach basic math and reading in the schools. Dr. Henry Hutchins, assistant superintendent for instruction, said the basic math curriculum for grades kindergarten through eight has been trimmed to 50 objective. A "support system" has been developed which breaks the curriculum into sequential learning units and shows teachers where to find materials needed to teach each unit, he said.

Mareta Varner, elementary reading consultant, described a similar support system prepared for the reading curriculum in grades four, five and six.

Elizabeth Ratz, secondary reading consultant, told the board about remedial reading programs in the district's junior and senior high schools and said a report on testing to be aired soon will show improvement in reading by remedial students. She also told of work completed last summer which involves rewriting teaching materials in social studies, English, science and other subjects to make them easier for poor readers to understand.

The board approved a new banking careers class to be offered in Monterey under the auspices of the Regional Occupational Program. The class was to have been offered in Pacific Grove, but was transferred because of the distribution of students who will be involved. Students will explore banking as a career by attending classroom sessions and actually working in downtown Monterey banks and savings and loan institutions. The regional program is designed to give students training in a number of vocational fields, and involves a joint effort by the Monterey, Pacific Grove, Salinas and Gonzales school districts.

The board passed a resolution urging Gov. Ronald Reagan to veto Senate Bill 400, which would repeal the Winton Act and allow teacher organizations to use collective bargaining. Also approved were resolutions urging the governor to sign bills which would provice funds for nutrition education programs and expand free and reduced price lunch programs throughout the state.

Adult Registration Continues For Two More Weeks

Registration for classes in the Monterey Adult School will continue for two more weeks, Principal Gerald O. Anderson has announced.

Anderson said openings still exist in a number of courses offered by the adult school, and invited interested persons to check class schedules. Schedules can be obtained at the adult school offices at Monterey and Seaside high schools evenings, Monday through Thursday, he said. During day office hours, they can be obtained at the adult school's central administrative office at 700 Pacific St., Monterey.

This fall's offerings include serveral new courses, Anderson said. There is a class in needlepoint at Monterey High School every Thursday from 7 to 10 p.m. The class is open to beginning, intermediate and advanced students.

Also new is a weaving course designed for students at all levels of that craft. The weaving class meets each Tuesday from 7 to 10 p.m. at Monterey High.

Consumers concerned with food prices may be interested in a new class called Smarter Food Shopping, which the instructor says will reduce food costs by 10 to 15 percent and improve the nutritional value of family meals. The class is a series of four workshops involving color slides and studies developed by the College of Human Ecology at Cornell University. To be covered are such things as factors like name brands, store brands, sizes, weights, labels and packaging. There will be information on how to buy more meat for your money and how to cut costs by studying unit prices and keeping records. The workshops will be held at Monterey High Thursdays from 7 to 9 p.m.

In addition to these, there are classes in communicating with the deaf, Gregg shorthand for beginning and review students, beginning and advanced photography, various arts and crafts and enrichment classes and courses that can be applied to high school diploma requirements.

The adult school gives courses in auto mechanics for men and women, basic electronics, welding, typing, driver training, dental-medical receptionist and nurse aide and orderly training.

A daytime Adult Basic Education program is maintained at the Del Monte Manor, 1466 Yosemite, Seaside to provide classes in basic subjects.

Talcott Wants More Aid For School Lunch Programs

Congressman Burt L. Talcott said in Washington, D.C. recently, that increased food prices have 800,000 young people to drop out of the school lunch program since September 1972, and over the last four years the program has lost 1,600,000 children to spiraling food prices.

"I have voted to amend H.R. 9639, the National School and Child Nutrition Act to provide additional Federal assistance to the school lunch and breakfast programs to meet the upward climb of costs," Talcott remarked. "A number of school districts have announced their intention to increase lunch prices for the new school year. A rise of 1 cent in the cost of lunch, according to a U.S. Department of Agriculture survey, causes a 1 percent drop in participation. Since most lunch programs raise their prices in 5 cent increments, a 5 percent decrease in participation is anticipated. Marginal middle class children should not be eliminated from this program by making it necessary for schools to price these children out of the program. Only a small increase in Federal support for the lunches and breakfasts is needed to maintain this worthwhile program, and I supported such a raise. I hope that the whole school lunch program can be reformed to make it more equitable and less wasteful."

Talcott Urges All To Help Cleanup

Congressman Burt L. Talcott urges everybody to "pitch-in" and lend a hand to clean up America.

The month between September 15 and October 15, 1973 has been designated Johnny Horizon Clean Up Axrican Month and all campaign supporters--business executives, government employees, elected officials, club leaders, youngsters, young adults, and other participants--are asked to sponsor clean up, beautification, recycling, collection and education programs and other environmental improvement projects during the month.

Congressman Talcott also reminds young people in the twelfth district to do their share during Earth Patrol Clean Up Week which My Weekly Reader will sponsor from September 30 to October 6. Twelve million youngsters are expected to participate.

My Weekly Reader, recipient of the 1972 Johnny Horizon '76 National Environmental Award, will encourage elementary grade classes to clean up and beautify their school grounds and neighborhoods and take other environmental education and action activities during the week.

Congressman Talcott said, "I want to encourage everyone to get involved in this worthwhile effort. While I believe that is important to set aside these weeks so that interest may be focused on the need to clean up our environment, I certainly hope we make an effort everyday to contribute to improving the quality of our environment. Let's endeavor to make each and every day "Clean Up Day."

Moscone Urges Signing Of Teachers' Bill

Senator George Moscone has urged Governor Reagan to help "end the chaos in employer-employee relationships in California schools" by signing Senate Bill 400.

SB 400 establishes collective bargaining rights for public school employees, obligating both boards of education and teachers to negotiate in good faith on contractual matters.

"Rather that facilitating teacher strikes, SB 400 will make teacher strikes unnecessary," said Senator Moscone, author of the legislation. "When people can sit down to talk to each other in good faith, the frustration that creates strikes will be lessened.

SB 400 has been endorsed by the California Federation of Teachers (AFL-CIO), California Labor Federation, California Teachers Association, United Teachers of Los Angeles, California School Employees Association, and the California School Nurses Association.

place at the Governor's Office.

The design, first of four Official State Medallions commemorating the Bicentennial, was created by high school student Preston Condict of Our Town (near Paso Robles), California.

Young Condict entered the ARBCC-conducted state-wide competition for high school students earlier this year. He will be the recipient of a $1,500 scholarship award.

Governor Reagan will present the first place prize as well as the second and third place prizes to two other students at the October ceremonies.

Also present will be ARBCC Commissioners, constitutional officers of the state and legislators. In addition, bank, savings and loan and retail store presidents who are participating in the public service-oriented medallion program will be present.

Medallion sales will help raise funds for state Bicentennial programs sponsored by the Commission.

Medallions will go on sale throughout the state beginning mid-October. Individually numbered sterling silver medallions will sell for $12.50 and antique bronze medallions for $3.50.

STRICTLY CONJECTURE ...
By Lou Haddad

"Ted, this is Dick Nixon. I'm a little concerned about this Maryland thing which people there claim may reflect adversely against you."

"Well, Mr. President, you can rest assured that the outcome will please you when it's all over with," replied Agnew.

"I hope so, but at any rate, are you going to be around Washington Saturday, the pst of September/ If you are, I'd like to talk with you further about it. I'll be in Washington that day, and I'd like to get together with you about it."

"Fine," said Agnew. "I'll make it a point to be here."

So President Nixon cut short his retreat at San Clemente and headed back to Washington the next day.

Upon arrival, he headed straight to the oval office, where he cleaned up a few last minute papers he had on his desk. Then he directed his aide to contact the Vice President and notify him that he was available for that discussion.

An hour or so later, Agnew entered, shook Nixons hand, smiled broadly and accepted the seat offered by the President. His manner was one of self-assurance.

The President set aside some papers relative to the minimum wage law which he anticipated vetoing, and said forthrightly:

"Ted, I'm going to get straight to the point. Is there anything in Maryland which may evenly remotely imply that you were involved in any shady dealings there?"

"Absolutely not, Mr. President. Whatever may appear as a detrimental blight on my record will be just that, only an appearance. I'm not going to try to impress upon you that whatever the press may construe as graft may not have justification. What I'm trying to say is that there is a distinct possibility that some contractors who contributed to one or more of my campaigns also were recipients of state contracts."

"This I don't know yet. My attorneys are investigating this possibility right now. If it turns out that in fact some of the people who contributed to my campaigns did receive State government contracts, then I expect that any explanation will be very difficult."

The President looked down for a moment, reflected upon this last bit of Agnew candor and said. "Ted, neither one of us look good right now. I don't have to tell you, you are well aware. But one reason I wanted to speak to you in person concerning this issue, is because if you ever feel, during the course of the Attorney Generals investigation, that you should resign, please let me know some time in advance. I'll tell you why."

"If you must resign, I will have the opportunity to appoint Ronnie Reagan or Tom Connally as your successor. I believe that either will be acceptable to the Senate. In addition, if by the remotest possibility I see fit to resign, or some other course of action removes me from this office, somebody will be here to pick up the marbles. At least, that's better than Carl Albert assuming the Presidency. Heaven forbid."

"You're right" said Agnew. "Well, let's see what happens. But I can assure you, I'll go down fighting. My good name is at stake."

"Good" said the President. "Let's play it by ear".

PROCLAMATION
"Military-Community Week"

Whereas, the week of October 1 through October 7, 1973 will be celebrated as "Military-Community Week"; and

Whereas, for one of the few times in history all of the Chambers of Commerce of the Monterey Peninsula have worked together to promote this outstanding event; and

Whereas, the City of Seaside with its close ties to Fort Ord over the years and its close priximity to other military installations in the area has a special regard for the military presence on the Peninsula; and

Whereas, during the week a round-robin in Socko and Volleyball will be played between military and civilian teams; and

Whereas, on Sunday, October 7, from 12 noon to 6 p.m. all will gather at the Monterey County Fairgrounds for an old fashioned picnic; and

Whereas, the picnic will feature fun filled activities such as playoffs between the winning Socko and Volleyball teams, games and sports for children, including a pie-eating contest, sack races, and a diaper derby, with trophies awarded to the winners; and

Whereas, the picnic will also contain other attractive features such as free barbeque and free entertainxnt with local celebrities on the outdoor stage. Beer will be served at 25¢ per glass; and

Whereas, the week of October 1 through 7 will give an opportunity to local citizens and merchants to express their gratitude to vlitary personnel of the area for their years of patronage of local business and outstanding service rendered to the community as a whole.

By virtue of the foregoing, as Mayor of the City of Seaside, I hereby proclaim the week of October 1, 1973 through October 7, 1973 as "Military-Community Week" and urge all citizens to support this event wholeheartedly.

MODEL

The Black church out of necessity and expediency has had to be a school, bank, concert hall, home away from home and social club. Much spirit of independence and the development of leadership skills have resulted from participation within the life of the Black church.

Bob Wood Reports

There is a stronger precedent than most people realize for a church-sponsored boycott of certain California crops. At one point of John Wesley's ministry he called for a boycott on tea because it was produced by slave labor. He told his people to dring beer instead.

Usually it is our own state of California that takes the initiative on principal issues and in many cases the other states tend to follow.

However, the state of New York has taken the lead in dealing with heroin pushers. The toughest anti-narcotics law in the nation went into operation September 1, 1973 in the state of New York.

New York has long been known as one of the more progressive and permissive states. It is also the unenviable distinction of having one of the highest crime and narcotics rates. New York City alone, it is conservatively estimated, has 125,000 heroin addicts. A new approach was apparently needed. New York has decided to get tough.

The Legislature voted into law 0ndatory life sentences for pushers of hard narcotics. The new law requires anyone convicted of selling one once of heroin (or similar hard narcotic) to be sentenced to life imprisonment. No longer will judges have the discretion to let the pusher off "easy."

The convicted pusher will now have to serve a vnimum of 15 to 25 years before becoming eligible for parole. And then the only parole possible is parole for life. New York is playing for keeps.

Accompanying these admittedly draconian penalties, the new law provides for 100 additional judges to preside over special "drug courts." The New York Drug Abuse Program has spent half-a-million dollars in their efforts. How it works out will be closely watched by our Legislature and may well provide a model for the country to follow.

NROTC Deadline Announced

Applicants interested in a four year scholarship on the Navey have until November 1, 1973 to apply, according to Navy recruiter Bill Burgess.

The 1974 Navy R3serve Officer Training Corps Navy-Marine Corps Scholarship Program offers financial aid for four years in college. The Navy pays tuition and educational fees, books, uniforms, and $100 per month subsistance allowance.

The purpose of the program is to provide civilian-educated career officers to serve the American people in the U. S. Navy and Marine Corps. Upon succesfully completing baccalaureate degree requirements and completing summer training periods, students are commissioned officers in the regular Navy or Marine Corps.

Applicants will be considered, based on socres obtained on either the Scholastic Aptitude Test (SAT) of the College Entrance Examination Board, or the American College Test (ACT) of the American College Testing Program.

Applicants for the 1974 NROTC Navy-Marine Corps Scholarship Program must:

Apply for and take one of the tests specified above at their own expense before November 3, 1973.

Arrange with the appropriate testing agency for the submission of their scores to the NROTC Navy-Marine Corps Scholarship Program, Princeton, N.J.

Beware Of Counterfeit Bills

Americans are losing twice as much money to counterfeiters as they did two years ago.

According to Crocker Bank, the value of counterfeit bills foisted off on the public has risen from $2.1 million in 1971 to $4.8 million last year.

If the trend continues, 1973 could prove a banner year for crooks.

As a counterattack, banks throughout the country have stepped up in counterfeit detection training for tellers. And the Secret Service began the year with the seizure of $10 million in counterfeit currency -- one of its largest hauls ever.

Government confiscation and detection of counterfeit bills has increase 900 percent in the last 10 years, from $3.4 million in 1963 to $27,7 million last year.

Crocker Bank said the Secret Service relies strongly on an educated public as a major means of curbing today's increased counterfeiting.

The consumer can guard against ending up with a phony $20 bill in his pocket by learning to detect counterfeit bills beforehand, the bank said.

The surest method is to compare a suspect note with a genuine one of the same denomination and series. Look for the red and blue fibers in the paper. Counterfeiters sometimes attempt to stimulate these fibers by printing colored lines on their paper.

Rubbing a bill on a piece of paper is not a good detection test, said Crocker Bank. Ink can be rubbed off genuine as well as counterfeit notes. But the paper used for genuine notes is of a higher quality and may feel different.

In comparing bills, look for differences, not similarities. Most counterfeit printing appears flat and lacks the three-dimensional quality of the genuine note.

Further, many of the delicate lines in the portrait of a counterfeit bill often are broken or missing. The small squares in the background of the portrait often are filled in.

In addition, the points of the treasury seal on a phony bill are ragged and the serial numbers frequently are poorly spaced or not aligned.

Crocker Bank said if you discover a counterfeit note, you immediately should record the pertinent details -- who gave it to you and how, when and where you received it. Then contact the nearest office of the U.S. Secret Service, your local police department, a commercial bank or the Federal Reserve Bank.

GrantProgram Is Underway

Assemblyman Bob Wood has announced the opening of competition for the College Opportunity Grant Program. The program is administered by the California State Scholarship and Loan Commission to help needy disadvantaged students pay for the cost of going to our California Community Colleges. The two Community Colleges in Monterey County are Hartnell College in Salinas and Monterey Peninsula College in Monterey.

The College Opportunity Grant Program is for disadvantaged students with high potential, but who are identified by factors other than test scores. Currently, there are 2,000 new College Opportunity Grants authorized for the 1974-75 year. These grants are for students from low-income families who are not necessarily able to obtain scholarships by the use of conventional selection methods. No minimum level of grades nor test scores are required for acceptance in this program. The applications, however, must demonstrate in some way that they have a high potential to succeed in college.

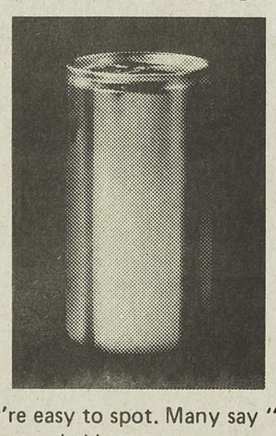
EMPTY ALL-ALUMINUM CANS



DESCRIPTION: They're easy to spot. Many say "all-aluminum" right on the can. They have rounded bottoms, are non-magnetic and have no side seam. Don't be fooled by some easy-open cans that say "aluminum" on the top. This does not mean they are "all-aluminum". You'll find your favorite beverage in quick-chilling all-aluminum cans. Cans that protect flavor and freshness —— and prove their value even when empty.

REWARD

10¢ A POUND plus AN ENVIRONMENTAL BONUS

Reynolds Aluminum will pay a reward of 10¢ a pound——about ½¢ each, for every empty all-aluminum beverage can you collect. But your biggest reward will come from the self-satisfaction of participating in the fight against litter and solid waste.

For information on where to bring them.

Toys Can Talk & Listen

Winnie The Pooh is no longer the only stuffed animal who can carry on conversations with children. He's now joined by a stuffed Snoopy, St. Barnard, and a bull -- all wired for sound by the organization of Pioneers, to aid in the therapy of youngsters with educational or emotional impediments throughout much of the state.

The Pioneers is a service-oriented group of volunteer men and women of good will, employed for at least 21 years in telephone industries.

Plush animals were purchased by them and hooked up with a two-way radio, so that a therapist in another location could engage a child in conversation with the toy animal.

Free presentations of the animals were made this week to over a dozen children's health and educational facilities from South San Francisco to San Luis Obispo, and from Fresno to Bakersfield.

These were the first presentations of the Sierra Pacific Chapter of Pioneers, which covers those areas.

Locally, Gateway Center in Seaside received theirs September 20 from Mrs. Fran Nueman, Pioneer spokesman.

"The concept of the 'Talking Animal' was initiated back East about three years ago," said Mrs. Neuman, a Pacific Telephone employee.

"This was after therapists determined that certain children would not communicate with another person, but they would talk to toys as they played.

"A method was devised to converse with the child through a transmitting and receiving radio system installed in a large doll. However, it was soon discovered that dolls were too fragile for the over-eager hands of enthusiastic boys and girls. So, the logical replacement was a big stuffed animal, which kids have universally related to for years and years as a security symbol."

Professional therapists had lots to say at a live demonstration of the talking toys as part of a seminar in New Jersey introducing the toys to representatives of different agencies.

"It brings a bit of magic in their lives," said one therapist, while another said more specifically: "Children were less with-drawn and more verbal after one lesson . . . and it's most helpful in early speech therapy."

Pioneers donated money for the project from different sales and fundraising activities, and members spent about six hours equipping each animal for "talking" and "listening."

As I See It

by Mel Vercoe

"Olga, what did you do with the bread? There is nothing here but some cake."

"That's not cake, Ivan. That's bread made from that new American wheat I bought on the black market yesterday."

"Be careful what you say, Olga. Those Americans will sell anything, and there is a rumor there is some surplus bugging equipment on sale in Washington."

"Try the new bread, Ivan. See if you like it."

"Not bad, but i will take some getting used to unless you put in a little sawdust for roughage."

"Why did they sell us the wheat, Ivan? The ice man says they sold it for a loss."

"Some did and some didn't, Olga. The people lost quite a bit because the shortage boosted the price sky-high, and their government is kind of pushed out of shape because word leaked out that our government is re-selling it for a profit, but the grain dealers who engineered the deal made a lot of money, and they are the onew that count."

"But, Ivan, why does the price go up just because there is a shortage? Why doesn't the price just stay the same? Do the Americans have some kind of a law changing prices on things?"

"I'm glad you asked that question, Olga. It is called the law of supply and demand, and it works something like this. If fifty millionaires were drowning in a lake and I was on shore with a life preserver in my hand, I could get a pretty good price for it, but if each of them already had two life-preservers mine would be worth only about seventy cents. Understand?"

"I'm way ahead of you, Ivan. That is the only loaf of bread I am going to make with that American 9heat unless you buy me a new garden shovel. Is it a deal?"

"Forget it, Olga. Pass the sawdust."

Flamenco Concert Is At Cecil's

Rosa Montoya

Rosa Montoya, renowned flamenco dancer, will sing and dance this Sunday, September 30, from 9 p.m. until 12 p.m. at Cecil's Pizza Pub in Seaside. Price for the show is $2.

To speak about the Montoya family is to speak of Flamenco. Rosa was born listening to the beautiful music of her uncle, Ramon Montoya, father of the flamenco guitar.

Born in Madrid, Rosa literally danced before she walked. As a child critics were already predicting a brilliant career. At twelve, she was awarded the gold medal of the Circulo de Bellas Artes. At seventeen, she already had her own "cuardo flamenco" at the Cuevas de Nemesio in Madrid.
